Congratulations Angelene Lloyd-Bryant—DUX 2018

At last night's glittering Senior Prizegiving in the Selwyn Theatre, our Year 13 student Angelene Lloyd-Bryant was honoured as the Selwyn College Dux for 2018.

Angelene's academic track record throughout her years at Selwyn has been exceptional. She has received a Scholar award at every year level and was our Year 12 Top Scholar last year.

Angelene is an outstanding young woman who is also a champion equestrian. We are hugely proud of her.

A Spectacular Year 13 Graduation Dinner

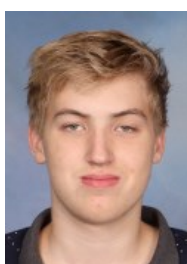

This year the Graduation Dinner for our Year 13 students was held at Eden Park. It was a spectacular evening with almost four hundred students and family/whanau present.

Along with a delicious dinner and the presentation of Graduation Certificates to every student, guests were entertained by outstanding musical items from Ruby Wills and Jess Smith and six impressive graduation speeches. Thank you to Lucy Elisara, Pia Davis, Felipe Pahulu, Stellar Shaw, Louis Hutchings and Angelene Lloyd-Bryant.

In addition, eight Year 13 students were presented with our new SELWISE trophies – one for each Learning Area - recognising their learner attributes. The citation reads: Students who receive this award are intentional learners who know how to control their learning journey. They are connected to our learning community, curious to explore and learn more, collaborative, resourceful and connected.

Child Safety with Social Media

Social media usage is now ubiquitous amongst NZ teens;

Social media can be particularly addictive for tweens and teens. It also opens the door to a variety of different issues, like cyberbullying, inappropriate sharing and talking to strangers.

Access to social media is also central to teens' developing a social identity. It's the way that they connect with their friends, and it can be a healthy way to hangout. The key is to figure out some boundaries so that it remains a positive experience.

Safe Rules for Social Media

1. Discuss the pressure to share—Kids constantly feel pressure to share pictures and other details about their lives. Have a positive conversation about the value of privacy to help relieve them of that pressure.
2. Understand the permanence of social media—Remind your kids that there's no such thing as deleting something on social media. Knowing that whatever they share is permanent (even if they take it down) will encourage them to think about what they post.
3. Educate them about online strangers—Predators use the internet to track and contact children. It's important your child knows who they contact or accept friend requests from.

How to enforce a safe environment

1. Don't let your kids on social media until they reach the required age.
2. Keep the computer in a public, accessible location where you can see your child's activity.
3. Limit the amount of time your kids can be on social media or online.
4. Block location access to all social media apps.
5. Adjust the privacy settings to make your child's account as private as possible.
6. Monitor your child's activity online. Make sure the content they post is harmless with no identifiable features.
